

PS from Brian Wood: Sir Thomas Beecham always had trouble remembering people and their names. On one occasion, many years ago, he was shopping in Fortnum and Mason's store in Piccadilly when he saw across the food hall a woman waving at him. He vaguely recognized her and waved back. She made a beeline for him but he couldn't remember who she was. She approached him and said that her brother had particularly enjoyed his last concert. Still baffled, he couldn't think of what to say and asked "What is your brother doing now?" The lady smiled and replied "Oh he's still King." She was the Princess Royal. Dear Jesus, please don't fail to recognize me when I speak to you.

Latest from Kim and Cathy on the Pastoral Diploma: Dear Parish Family,

It has been a while since Kim and I gave you an update on our pastoral ministers course. This is partly due to other aspects of life also taking up our time. What I can say is that the last 18 months has flown by. The course really is so interesting with only a few weeks in between each module before we start again but worth every minute. Despite both being cradle Catholics, I'm sure Kim will agree that we have learnt so much - things we never knew, things we knew but didn't understand and things that have literally blown our minds.

A few of you have asked us what we intend to do with the course when we finish or if we will be lay ministers. The answer is we really don't know, we still have 18 months to go and see where Christ is leading us. What we do know is that we are not the only parish experiencing change. The church of today is ever evolving as is the world we live in. We face new challenges with ageing communities, pandemics, empty pews and a world which seems to have more to offer those missing from our parish family than Christ does.

St John Paul II continually referred to "the New Evangelisation" in his writings, focusing on preaching to those who have never heard the gospel, to those in whom the gospel teachings are alive and active, and to those who are lost and have removed themselves from Christ and his gospel.

I feel as a parish family we do really well meeting the needs of those for whom the gospel is active in their lives. We have a strong sense of community and I for one have reaped the benefits of this loving community more than once in my life. Evangelising the other 2 groups is going to be a challenge but is not beyond our capabilities. We have started to water the small seeds planted already, for example in the unity we share with other local churches, (Alpha) and the support we provide for the foodbank.

Yes, the course is helping Kim and I to look differently at our approach to evangelisation but spreading the word of Christ is the responsibility of each and every one of us: we are, after all, all born to be disciples of Christ. It is acknowledging Christ is active in our lives, it is not being afraid to put him first in all we do. John 12:36 says "Believe in the light that you may become sons of light".

Please continue with your prayers for Kim and me as we see where Christ is leading us. We all have work to do: yes, some of us will be shouting from the rooftops but others will be evangelising in smaller ways such as in quietly praying. Yes, change is afoot but our future is exciting and full of possibilities. What is important is we are all on this journey of change together and if we keep Christ as our focal point there is no way we can fail. On this journey. God bless x

Latest on Hospital Visiting: Following an increase in COVID-19 infections, leading to an increase in hospital admissions, nosocomial infections and outbreaks across the region, the decision has been taken to reintroduce the wearing of facemasks in all clinical settings with immediate effect. This includes colleagues, patients and visitors, and applies to acute, community, outpatient and domiciliary settings. Facemasks are not required on main corridors but must be donned before entering clinical areas.
